What Is Going On At Mass?

In the Mass following the “Our Father” the priest prays some special words which most of us recognize: “Deliver us, Lord, we pray, from every evil, and graciously grant peace in our days, that, by the help of your mercy, we may be always free from sin and safe from all distress, as we await the blessed hope and the coming of our Savior, Jesus Christ.”

This prayer by the priest is known as the Embolism. Most of us, when hearing the word embolism think of a health condition in which one encounters an obstruction of a blood vessel, but the word gets its meaning from the Greek emballein (em-bal-lein), meaning to “put in” or “between”. Thus, the obstruction is in the blood vessel, and the words of the priest are put in between The Lord’s Prayer and the “extra ending” to that prayer where the people conclude, acclaiming: “For the kingdom, the power and the glory are yours now and forever”.

Many protestant faiths, when saying the Lord’s Prayer, conclude it with these words, without the embolism (the in between prayer). Though it is not part of the prayer that Jesus taught us, this acclamation by the people does have biblical roots and finds its appropriate home at this moment in the Mass. We come in contact with the Mass of some of the earliest Christians when we acclaim it. These words are taken from a prayer of thanksgiving used in the celebration of the Eucharist in the first generation of Christianity after the apostles.

Does this mean that the “extra ending” of the Our Father that many other Christians pray is actually a “Catholic” ending? Yes; it came from some of the earliest celebrations of the Mass! If you look up the Our Father in your Catholic Bible, you won’t find these additional words. However, if you look in the living Tradition of Christian faith in the Catholic Church, you will find those words as part of the Mass as a commentary and response to the Our Father.

Sri writes, “the words themselves reach 1,000 years further back into the Old Testament period. They are derived from King David’s climactic praise of God at the end of his reign, representing one of David’s last acts as king before he passed the throne on to his son Solomon; ‘Blessed are thou, O Lord, the God of Israel our father, for ever and ever. Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in the heavens and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all’.

At every Mass, we echo these words of King David. In doing so, we acknowledge God as the Lord of our lives and praise him for all the blessings he bestows upon us. Whatever good we might do, whatever success we might experience, ultimately comes from God: “For they kingdom, the power and the glory are yours now and forever.”

Do This In Remembrance of Me!
